FutureWerx, sponsored by Threat Tec, is a dynamic ecosystem uniting industry, government, and academia to envision future conflict landscapes through emerging technologies and trends.

Our exploration mindset drives us to investigate these developments' implications, fostering a forward-thinking approach to national security. We combine this exploration with compelling storytelling to generate insights that propel defense and industrial base actions.

By transforming complex technological trends into powerful narratives, we inform and inspire strategic decisions within the defense community. FutureWerx offers various services, including a Research Studies Program, podcasts, storytelling, white papers, conferences, and social media content.

We pride ourselves on being objective, innovative, collaborative, and unbounded in our thinking. Inspired by TRADOC's "Mad Scientist" Program and leveraging over 50 years of defense experience, we imagine a myriad of futures and transformative technologies.

ABOUT US

THE BATTLEFIELD IS CHANGING

In today's global competition, integrating technologies with battlefield modernization is crucial.

The evolving landscape demands innovative solutions for readiness and strategic advantage. Combining emerging technologies with advanced military strategies addresses modern warfare complexities and future threats.

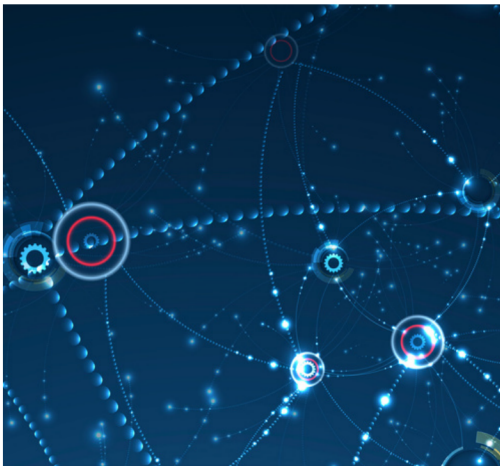

This integration enhances operational effectiveness and strengthens defense capabilities, ensuring adaptability and resilience.

Preparing for these shifts requires a forward-thinking approach, blending technological advancements with modernization efforts to maintain a competitive edge in a rapidly changing world.
